Thinking Out Loud

(By H. M. L.)

THINKING OUT notwf-ocanzbr

Whatever we may surmise regarding the Federal finances, California has a balanced budget. To a determined governor, thanks for this condition is due. It is considered very conservative nowadays to balance a budget. A bit old fogyish, savoring of the mid-Victorian era, to see to it that outgo has an income to balance it. The legislature, which is ultra modern, taking it by and large, gagged, balked and talked belligerantly but eventually it passed the governor's revenue bills substantially outlined by him in his message. Good politics and good business for once jumped together.

Speaking with one of the county officials a few days ago, he declared with some vehemence, that Nevada County never needed an SERA and that he would be —— glad to see it wound up. But it was either SERA or some other alphabetical castor oil, we had to take, or pungle up a considerable sum out of taxes for out and out relief, with no lawn cutting to offset it. As a matter of fact, a considerable sum of tax money has been expended for materials used by CWA and SERA. Perhaps putting the relief money into one kitty and dispersing it as the need arose, would have been cheaper. There's no way of knowing which has cost the taxpayer least and which would have benefitted the unemployed most.

But of all the stories that illustrate the great failing of humanity, this wins: A considerable number of the SERA workers refer to our President with downright disrespect and declare they will not vote for him next year. It seems they don't care for the great variety and intermittant character of their jobs. A month cutting brush, or mending roads, is alright. It's a lark, a change from enforced idleness, and a kind of vacation and sociable time with fellow unemployed. But when month after month drags along, they tire of this hop, skip and jump job and begin to wonder why the President with piled up billions on tap doesn't do something about it. From wondering they turn to bitterness and unkind remarks.

Sometimes the reporters on these big city papers do make a sad blunder. Referring to former President's Hoover's affectionate alllusion to "Cousin Jacks," a metropolitan reporter threw into perenthesis these words "generic term referring to all miners." Of course it does refer to the most expert miners in the world, the Cornish. But mistakes of this kind are what comes of giving the society reporter an assignment to a mountain celebration. Most reporters are really smarter than that.

JAM AND JELLY DERBY NOW OPEN

SACRAMENTO, July 8.—Simmering kettles in hundreds of California kitchens now mark the starting post for the annual pam and jelly sweepstakes at the ten day California State Fair which opens in Sacramento on August 31.

Even the fruits and berries which go into these palate-teasers seem to know that there is much at stake this year, for a fine, wet winter has produced the juiciest ingredients in years.

The pantry shelves on which the jams and jellies will be displayed in the Women's Building will be under close guard to keep away any small boys, or big ones, too, who might yield to temptation.

Cactus, guava, mint and fig are among the fifty prize classes which illustrate the variety of products the California housewife has at call in preparing the family sweets.

HOME FROM SURVEY

Mr. Leland Smith, in charge of stock grazing in the Tahoe National Forest returned home Friday evening with Mrs. Smith from a tour of the eastern part of the reserve where he had been making a survey of the stream, and lake improvements for the fish and game commission. This work taken up by the forest service in the new program will quite materially assist in preservation and increase of trout, for the fishermen.

Mr. Smith stated that at this time there are 75,000 sheep and 75,000 cattle grazing in the Tahoe National forest.

FLOOR PLANNED FOR COMMUNITY HOUSE SOON

Meeting with the park commission Friday evening the city council heard a brief report from that body. The commission reported that it was adverse to the purchase of a chlorinator for the pool this season, both on account of its excessive cost, and because they felt that a new floor for the community house was more important. R. J. Bennetts chairman of the commission stated that the commission believed that if a good floor were placed in community house a considerable sum might be raised from rentals to the lodges, conventions, and picnickers, which would help defray the costs of operating the municipal pool and park.

The best estimates of the cost of a chlorinator and circulating pump for the pool was $500 The council approved the report of the commission.

The city council decided to appropriate $1,000 to the fire department for the purchase of a new truck, the money to be available when taxs are available in October.

CAMP FIRE GIRLS CELEBRATE WITH WATER PAGEANT

There are more than 400 girls and counselors camped on Lake Vera in the four camps, Piedmont, or Camp Augusta, Camp Celio, girls from Oakland, Berkeley and Alameda; Minaluta, girls from Sacramento; and Gold Hollow, Y. W. C. A. girls from all of northern California. The first three camps are for Camp Fire Girls. More than 1,000 girls enjoy vacations on this lake annually.

Last week the girls put on an Indian Pageant, at Camp Piedmont, before a large audience of outside visitors composed of parents, relatives and friends.

On the evening of July Fourth the four camps united in holding a water carnival on Lake Vera. Piedmont Camp lighted their side of the lake with Japanese lanterns, many girls in the throng of canoes carried lighted torches. The piers were lighted with candles.

Both affairs were beautiful and artistic, the young women carrying out original ideas in the unusual performances.

THESE MINORCAS TO CACKLE ELSEWHERE

"I've spent the week end chasing black Minorcas out of town" sighed Chief of Police Garfield Robson yesterday. "Their names were Mildred Ross and Marie Smith. They were behaving very improperly and their cackle disturbed Nevada City. I picked them up on a charge of vagrancy. Judge Walter Mobley sentenced them to 90 days in jail or else. They took the alternative and the two 'colahed gals' moved elsewhere."

NEVADA CITY HAD LARGE SHARE IN FOURTH PARADE

Floats and marchers from Nevada City in the 4th of July parade in Grass Valley were:

Banner Mountain Post, V. F. W., marching and carrying colors, and followed by members of the Auxiliary.

Hydraulic Parlor, N. S. G. W., float represented the month of February with Mr. Elza Kilroy dressed in bronze colored silk with face and hands painted in same color, resembling the statue of Washington; Mr. R. L. P. Bigelow, as Uncle Sam, in full costume, held out his hand in a gesture of pride to the "Father of Our Country." Bob Bonner, small boy, representing Young America. The whole created one of the most patriotic floats in the procession.

Nevada County Lumber Company, float pictured, "Tulip Time in Holland," with a Dutch windmill, on a tower, turning with the breezes. It was surrounded by a row of red and yellow tulips, was realistic and one of the prettiest. Buddy Marsh and Margaret Chapman were on the float.

Nevada City High School Band, quite attractive in blue and gold costumes and played several patriotic airs.

Mayor Al Seaman and City Councilmen of Nevada City in a car.

Nevada City Chamber of Commerce float was gorgeous with flowers, as an old fashioned garden and arbor, Miss Pauline Rozinaski, took the character of mother and had two little girls with her.

Nevada City Fire Department truck carrying a number of the older members of Nevada City's fire department.

Builders Supply Co. — Building scene, boys erecting a house and girls playing in sand box; Misses Eileen Marrigan, Iva Foreman, Jean Harding, Doreen Foreman, Messrs. George Nelson, Sonny Merrigan, Gordon and Stanley Foreman, and Kenneth Watson, latter driver.

Electrical Murray — Two floats, the first a gaily decorated car, the next carried an Apex washing machine, daintily trimmed in blue and white crepe paper.

Laurel Parlor, N. D. G. W., Columbus Landing, Miss Eleanor VanBerg, as Columbus, in a boat and in costume; assisted by two Indians, Robert Van Berg and Beverly Barry; Two sailors, Bob James and Ed McGivern. Well sustained and drew much praise.

Banner Mountain Post, V. F. W., —Trees arranged for a snipers nest with a tiny cannon, and four veterans. The cannon fired blank shells at intervals. Those on the float were, Earl Raymond, Bert Wilmerton, L. Pinelli, William Mitchell and C. E. Bosworth. Misses Leila Shaughnessy and Narille Day were dressed as Red Cross nurses. The float attracted much attention.

Blue Bird group, Camp Fire Girls —Betty Rore, queen, and escorts were, Naomi Cleland, Mildred Tobiassen, Betty Pean Jacobs, Mary Jane Herboth and Helen Butz.

Elza Kilroy, who had labored so successfully to create a memorable float for Hydraulic Parlor, Native Sons, was specially honored. He was chosen to escort former President Hoover to the speaker's stand. During this ceremony the band played the 'Star Spangled Banner" Mr. Hoover warmly congratulated him upon the symbolism of his float and stated that it represented exactly what the Fourth should stand for.

PICNIC FOR NOR. SAN JUAN LEAGUE

(By KATHERINE BRAITHWAITE)

The members of the North San Juan Improvement League very wisely celebrated the Fourth of July by assemblying, family style, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Uhrig and enjoying a delightful picnic.

Everyone brought their bathing suits and sun-tan togs and the greater part of the day was spent in swimming and lounging at the Uhrig reservoir which makes a wonderful out-door bathing pool.

At two o'clock a baseball game between the married and single men began and held all interest until it ended in the ninth inning with a score of twenty seven to twenty eight in favor of the family men. It is hoped that more of these games by the local men will be played during the summer months as they invariably draw a big crowd and maintain a keen interest as well as providing a world of fun and hilarity.

Directly after the ball game the crowd assembled at the Uhrig home where ice cream was served and the folks who live on the Ridge were given an excellent opportunity to relax and visit with one another.

Just at dusk great bon fires were built on the ball grounds and when the flames had subsided to glowing embers the ladies of the league appeared with great baskets of buns, weoinies, cake, coffee and marshmallows. Immediately willow sticks were sharpened, weinies pierced and the fun began while a fire committee stood guard and the beautiful fireworks were ignited.

Later in the evening at the Uhrig home the piano was moved out on the balcony and dancing beneath the stars was enjoyed until a late hour.

EYE BADLY INJURED IN BASEBALL GAME

The many friends of Mr. Percy Hepburn will be sorry to hear he was the victim of a painful accident on the Fourth of July. Mr. Hepburn accompanied by his wife and son attended the North San Juan League picnic at the George Uhrig home. During the baseball game of which he was catcher, the ball glanced from the bat and struck him squarely in the left eye. Mr. Oscar Dahlstrom immediately rushed him to Nevada City, where it was advised that Mr. Hepburn be sent to a hospital for further treatment. The folks on the Ridge wish to use this opportunity of extending their sympathy to Mr. Hepburn and his family.

OFFICERS RAID, ARREST OWNERS OF DUDE RANCH

Sunday state and federal agents raided the popular dude ranch in Ewar Valley in eastern Nevada County, seizing a quantity of liquor n which the excise tax had not been paid. Frank and Jean Ewar, brothers, were brought before Justice of the Peace C. E. Smith, of Truckee and charged with not having a license. Each was fined $150, or 30 days in jail and given until Tuesday to pay the fines.

The arresting officers were Russell B. Farley in charge of liquor control in Nevada County; R. L. Joyner, who holds the same office in Placer County; and H. N. Hobart, federal officer.

The dude ranch, operated by Frank and Jean Ewar, is a popular resort visited by many from Reno and Sacramento.

GIRLS WANTED TO GRACE SAN JUAN RIDGE FIESTA

Here is a chance for the girls of Nevada County to win a royal throne, first, and positions of princesses in waiting, second. There will be a contest announced very shortly by the San Juan Ridge Improvement Leogue committee which has the direction and management of the San Juan Ridge Fiesta. Girls who would like to occupy one of these posts of honor and importance are requested to hand in their names, or send them to Mr. Harvey Trubshenk, chairman of the committee at North San Juan.

The girl that gets the highest number of votes will be crowned queen of the fiesta. A chosen number of other girls will be royal attendants. Much enthusiasm has been aroused by the plans for the big fiesta, which is to be held August 17 and 18.

FIRE OFFICIALS CONFER ON ANNUAL MEETING

Fire Chief Terrence Mulligan, and Assistant A. W. Boothby of the Sacramento Fire Department, Sacramento are in Nevada City today to make arrangements to hold their Pacific Coast Fire Conference which is held from September 9 to 14 in one of the local parks. This meeting will comprise firemen, their wives, and children from all parts of the Pacific Coast and Mexico to Canada and fully 1400 people will attend the meeting. They are conferring with Nevada City Fire Department officials.

REPAIRS TO FOOT BRIDGE

The city officials of Nevada City are replacing a flight of steps, and resurfacing about 100 feet of bridge just back of the homes of Miss Mary Haskins and Mrs. Clutter, that leads to Kopps Cabins and the swimming pool through the Gregory estate. The bridge has been in a very dangerous condition for some time and is travelled over by hundreds of people. The Gregory estate is a beautiful park with pretty shady walks under the pines and there is also a fine spring of cold water on the ground.

(By MILO TALLY)
Eagle Scout

Arriving at scout camp on the marge of Lake Kilborn at one o'clock in the morning with no moon out and a stiff breeze blowing from a snow capped mountain may not be the nicest way to obtain ones first glimpse of Camp Pahatsi but it has its advantages.

On awaking in the morning, with the sun's rays dancing on lake waters, one finds himself in the center of a mountain paradise. The beautiful camp lodge standing on a hill overlooking the lake is still sturdy after exceptional winter snows. A few hours spent in repairing damaged parts and it is ready for occupancy.

Then a dash for the mess hall. A warm cheery fire is blazing in the fire-place at one end of the hall. The pleasant aroma of frying bacon and eggs greets ones nostrils and immediately the appetite grows enormous. And why not! With Mrs. Dalby doing the cooking. She has been camp cook since 1929 and the scouts acclaim her the best chef in California. The plates have been filled and a scramble is made for the table in front of the fire-place. There sitting across the table is "Klondike Ike" Beecher, an old sourdough from the Alaska gold rush, ready to spin another of his yarns about Alaska mining.

During the course of the morning the boys all come to the wharf on the lake for a swim. One is immediately impressed by the organized life guarding system in effect. Older scouts are everywhere watching the swimmers. They can be seen in boats, on the wharf, on the boat house, and even on a lookout station twenty feet up the trunk of a tall pine tree. All swimmers have a partner called a buddy. These buddies have to stay together and every five minutes a check is made of the buddies. This system of guarding makes camp the safest place in the world to swim.

Camp also has an improved water system. Cold water is pumped from a well to a two thousand gallon pressure tank on the crest of a small hill. From this tank the water runs to all parts of the camp.

Camp also has a doctor on hand at all times. She has regular office hours but can easily be located in a few minutes in case of an emergency. Dr. Briner is a friend of everyone at camp and she likes to be around boys, having two of her own.

These are the things an old timer found on his first visit to Camp Pahatsi on the shore of Lake Kilborn. Let us reminisce for a few moments and recall the camp layout as it was years ago on the east side of Tamarack Flat. There was only one building and that a small inedaquate cook shack with a wood stove. Now the scouts have a modern kitchen with a stove burning fuel oil. Everyone slept in tents which weere pitched on the cold ground. Now the fellows have wooden floors in most of the tents and cement floors in the rest of them. Our old swimming hole was about four feet deep and was located in the headwaters of the Yuba river. At the present location boys swim in a lake. Boats are also on hand for rowing. Our old water system consisted of a few pipes which were continually becoming clogged with sand and dirt as the water was taken from a small mountain creek. Our latrines were small affairs with burlap for the sides and no roof. Now the boys have a fine sturdy building. It is hard to realize how rapidly improvements have been made at Camp Pahatsi. Now there isn't a finer place in the Sierras to send your youngster than summer scout camp.

Miss Roxanne Boggs and Miss Betsy Bennett are visiting at Fallen Leaf Lake.

TUNNELS INTO GRAVEL

Bob Moscatelli, who has 40 acres of good gold bearing gravel ground called Davis Flat, two miles north of Washington, was a Nevada City visitor for several days last week. He returned home Friday. Moscatelli has driven a drift in 300 feet into channel and conditions look quite favorable. He has plenty of water for mine operations.

"Unconstitutional"

(Contributed)

Never before in this history of the United States has the cry of "unconstitutional!" sounded so persistently through the legislative halls in Washington as it does today.

All the major New Deal legislation—the Wagner labor disputes bill, the revised AAA, the social securities act, the bill to abolish public utilities—all have been indorsed in one house or the other during the past two weeks to the echo of the cry, "unconstitutional!"

Whether these are good, bad, or indifferent measures is for the moment beside the point. The point is that nobody seems to know whether or not they actually are unconstitutional. And they have no way of finding out before the bills become law, and may be tested by the Supreme Court. It is a lamentable defect in our legislative machinery.

All the confusion attendant upon the sudden demise of NRA could have been avoided by the simple expedient of determining its constitutionality before it ever became law.

Should the AAA perhaps the most important legislation from California's point of view, go through the same procedure, the vast agricultural activity of this state would be thrown into turmoil.

The work of thousands of farmers in putting California on an orderly, marketing-agreement basis—the arduous effort, the long political fight and the constant surveillance of the California Farm Bureau Federation to establish and maintain the structure—all this would be tossed suddenly into the ash heap.

The whole picture is a little incongruous. The body of men who will have to decide the question eventually, is right next door to Congress. Why not do the obviously sensible thing, and require an interpetation from the Supreme Court before passing laws about which there could be any question of constitutionality?

NEW SCREEN INSTALLED IN NEVADA THEATRE

Saturday night marked the first appearance of the new Daytone screen at the Nevada Theatre. Manager William Tamblyn stated that the screen is the finest procurable, and is of the most modern type. It is also larger than the screen formerly used and gives the Teatre patrons a better view of the pictures. The screen has also been set back six feet from its former position, to afford a better view for those in the front seats.

A Leech for Speech

"The time has come," said Huey Long
"To speak of many things;
Of oysters, eels and frying pans,
Of codes and chicken wings."

And so, for fifteen hours or more,
Our Huey held the sacred floor;
But when the strange harangue was done,
He finished where he had begun.

So now I ask, "does any head
Retain the words that Huey said?
And will those words have any weight
In solving grave affairs of state?

And was this incident a test
Of cool endurance at the best?
For which by night and also day
The poor tax payer'll have to pay?

—A. MERRIAM CONNER.

WEEKLY COMMENT

BY

Christian Andersen

The soul of man is revealed in his ability to think and to reason. The artist is revealed in a man or woman who has the ability to express themselves in his or her chosen medium under adverse circumstances.

Many of the mediaeval musicians, painters, sculptors and others made their way amid terrifying physical and economic conditions, but with their soul clamoring for expression could not be daunted until death finally took them to their reward. After death it was found that their master pieces lived far beyond the short life of the producer, and are today giving joy and inspiration to millions. Not meaning to advise any one to be ascetic but to call attention to the augmented greatness through suffering of many of the world's great artists. To give form to thought is a tangible asset in any life.

Everyday economic and artistic success is based on man's gregariousness. Civilization is based on the tribal instinct, originally tribes lived as tribes for the sake of the protecton this mode of living afforded. Later the common good was found to be served in this tribel method of living because some of the comforts of life could be procured more easily through the cooperation of the whole tribe than by the sole effort of one family. More powerful tribes sometimes killed the members of the weaker ones or made them slaves and the tribe finally disappeared never to cross the horizon of history again. Today we have small town and metropolitan centers which is only the complete exemplification of human gregariousness. Each town has the right to expect their momentary place in the spotlight of human acclaim. North San Juan on the Ridge will make her bid for this brief moment in the sun on August 17th and 18th. when through the instrumentality of the Improvement League she will put on her first annual fiesta.

The present endeavor of our government seems to be an honest effort to so stabilize the security of the average family that, regardless of the visissitudes of that family's life, they will never be in doubt as to the source of their subsistance. However there should not be any automatic sequence to any of the security programs because if the security becomes a matter of 'it is my right," sort of a thing, the sense of value becomes lost. Rather should we understand that the boundaries are definite in our physical sphere, and that the only reality is the spirit of man. Without putting limitations on men's effort, we should seek in some manner to make the real medium of exchange in the spirit, rather than in gold and silver.

Things I should like to have heard: What Christ really said to the money changers when he expelled them from the temple. Mark Antonie's funeral oration over Caesar. Ole Bull the great Norwegian violin virtuoso when he played his entire concert on one string, in the Crystal palace in London, after he had deliberately broken all the rest of the strings. It would also be interesting to have head Demosthenes the great Greek orator, after he had come back from the seashore where he entirely overcame an impediment in speech by holding a small pebble under his tongue until he could enunciate clearly and carry the convictions of his heart into the hearts of his hearers.

DEATH SUMMONS HENRY CARREG

Advice from San Francisco states that death has summoned another former resident of this section. Henry Carreg passed away in San Francisco on June 25. He came to this country 62 years ago from the Isle of Man and engaged in mining at Brandy City and Camptonville. He had many friends in Nevada City. He married Miss Vada Skinner of Camptonville. There were seven children of this union: Harry, Kitty, George, Madge, Mona, Ray and Neva. For several years the family resided in French Corral.

Dr. Aaron Arbogast of Berkeley spent the Fourth in Nevada City with his brother, Carey S. Arbogast and family.
